Who are these there is no doubt that, its having been in ef- friends, and how much sorry are they? fect in twelve or thirteen States, it would be highly unjust and improper to change it at present. If it was unjust, the injustice has een wreaked upon some States, and the stern impartiality which should characterize a government ought not to change it until all the States subject to the law had submitted to the draff; if, on the other hand, as is claimed, the law is favorable to the States, and the exemption from the draft for $300 is just ly considered by the people of the States generally, as not only according with a custom of all nations in war, but as a right due to the laboring population, it having been ex tended to the Eastern States, must be granted to those of the West and Southwest. If, as was and is advocated, the commutation was raised above the $300, the small farmer, mechanic and retail merchant in the West, who was able to raise or fifteen hundred, would certainly feel that he had been treated with gross injustice.

It has been also suggested with a great dollar clause was' favorable to the rich and throws all commutation clauses altogether. will be as strenuous to a thousand dollars as to three hundred. The only rule would be that all drafted men should serve, no matter whether rich or poor. Just here, however, comes in one objection: The Government doesn't want all of the men subject to the draft. While some must go, others may stay at home; and it is just as well for the Government to draw an extra sum of money from one who can afford to pay it, to be laid out in a bounty to those who may volunteer or be

New York, Jan. 16. At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to-day, the following letter from the Assist-ant Secretary of the Navy was read:

"Washington, January 13, 1864. "Geo. W. Blunt, Esq., New York:

"DEAR SIR: The charges against the Navy Department for building slow steamers is best inswered by a comparative public trial. I am authorized by the Secretary to make arrange-ments to run one of our vessels against the fastest sea-going side-wheel vessel in the country, either foreign or American. She will run against the same tunnage and draft in any weather. If his competitor is much larger, to be placed in smooth water. "Very respectfully, C. V. Fox."

This certainly looks fair, and is a challenge which, if between the New York Chamber of Commerce and the Government, would very ikely be responded to; but it is, we suppose, a than in wasting a month's time or more in him at his leisure. preparation for a contest. The very foxy Secetary proposes also to select one of the some ship that may be hastily caught up. This is not fair. The charge has been that the average cruising vessels of the navy are slower than steamers owned by private parties. What is required, is that cruisers shall be faster. The only fair test would be a naval vessel to run against the time of the Alabama or the Vanderbilt.

I have believed through the war, and I never had any doubt, that Jeff. Davis' kingdom would tumble down for want of money, how-ever bravely his men might rush to the battle

It was a wise speech, made by Louis the Fourteenth in his great struggle, that the last gold piece would win; but it will not do to trust entirely too much to such maxims. They may prove to be popular fallacies. A nation or a people, cut off entirely from outward resources, may battle desperately on for an almost indefinite period. It would be well to remember, before building too much upon such hopes as these, that France fought for twenty years, during ten of which her credit was at nothing against combined Europe. The money is the most essential thing in war, but revolution and a blind, maddened enthusiasm may, for a long while, find resources undreamed of by the political economist.

We publish a letter this morning from Logan county, Ky., setting forth some facts to which we invite the special attention of the Legislature. We give the letter in full, as it gives a case in point, illustrating the wrongs that are practiced by such procedure. It strikes us that to carry out such military orders without the most careful scrutiny, is to President has restored him to his friends, his do more to turn the hearts of the people against the Government than anything else could do. But without further comment, we respectfully direct the attention of members to the letter, which is written by a gentleman of standing, and who presents a case which we think deserves their consideration.

LOGAN COUNTY, KY., Jan. 15, 1864. Messrs, Editors: Some weeks since a man living in this neighborhood, by the name of George Hall, had his house burnt, as he says, by six or eight men, whom he represented as guerrillas. These men were seen by no one else, and it is believed by many that they were altogether creatures of Hall's imagination. It is strange, indeed, that such a number of men could ever have passed in and out through a thickly-settled country and not be seen by others. At any rate Hall's house was destroyed, and he cried guerrillas, and the whole country sympathized with him in his losses. But this is not all. This man Hall laid his case before the military authorities, and forthwith a squad of soldiers are detailed to notify a large number of peaceable and innocent people that they must appear at Russell-

This is the true way in which commutation money must be laid out. The Government is understood to take the place of the individual drafted and to supply the substitute for him; to act as his agent in finding the substitute.

Another objection, but which lies at the base of all substitution, whether by the Government or by individuals, can be pointed out in the case of two or more drafts—as where A and B are both subject to the draft. At the first call A is drawn, and provides by

Afterwards some miserable charge is trumped up against them, or they have not taken the oath before the proper officer, or from some cause or other, they are again arrested, taken to Camp Chase, or some other point, forcibly detained from making their appearance to answer the charge preferred, their bonds are taken as forfeited, and the money collected from their sureties. In some cases, and, in fact, in nearly all, the parties have conducted themselves as quiet, law abiding citizens, in compliance with their oaths, and have been again arrested without cause and the bonds forfeited. I am informed that in Caldwell county a bond for $7,000 was taken as forfeited by a citizen, who was a second time arrested to answer the same old charges. In our county a young man took the oath and gave bond on the 4th of December, 1863, to Lieutenant Colonel Hester, Forty eighth Kentucky regiment. He afterwards gave two bonds to the Commonwealth to answer cer-tain charges in the Caldwell and Lyon Circuit Courts. On the 25th of December he was arrested under the plea that Col. Hester had no authority to administer the oath, and takes the bond. If he is detained as a prisoner, I suppose his bonds to the Commonwea!th will be forfeited. Respectfully,

In Spain, a woman on her marriage retains (as with us) the name, the proper name, by which alone she had been baptized. She also retains her apellido, or surname. The children not unfrequently take the surname of both their parents, not with a disjunctive alias, but with a conjunctive y (and), as Don Francisco Quevedo y Villegas. When the rank of the mother is considerably more exalted than that of the father, the surname of the mother is sometimes taken alone.

A LARGE HALL, OF FISH—On Samrday other joints, the joints themselves, by which the different parts are bolted together, are very powerful, and move easily, allowing the different sections to rise and fall with the slightest motion of the water. The inventor of this rather singular vessel is of opinion that a proper connector ship should consist of in all ten parts, nine for cargo and one for motive power, the latter always to be at sea with three sections filled with cargo—three sections, in fact, being filled with cargo and three discharging, so that the steam-power section itself need never be idle. According to this theory, it is contended that the capital sunk in the cost of steam machinery need never be in a manner useless while the vessel is waiting to receive her cargo. But the chief cost of steam power for vessels is that a proper connector ship should consist of neither of which would be in the least degree diminished by keeping the machinery constantly going. It is stated that the vessel now at Hungerford has been severely tested in a seaway, and found to answer so well as to justify larger shies being built on the same principle. Of this we can say nothing, beyond that such a result is very different from what one would expect from the appearance of the ship and the manner in which she would be perfectly certain to work in a really heavy sea. For the certain to work in a really heavy sea. For the navigation of inland rivers the principle seems much better adapted, though here again the great length of a connector vessel would hardpermit of her being turned and shifted over in the rapid manner which is so necessary in inland rivers having a strong tideway. Their great length and light draught must undoubtedly evable such ships to attain a high speed and carry great burdens into very shallow waters. These merits the new principles possess, but their claims to other and more important. but their claims to other and more important advantages must be longer and more fully proved than they have yet been before either merchants or builders will adopt jointed FRANKFORT, KY., Jan. 4, 1864. The frequent outrages perpetrated in various parts of the State by lawless bands of maranders can, in a large degree, be traced to the active aid of rebel sympathizers in our midst, or their neglect to furnish to military commandants the information in their pos ssion, which would lead to the defeat and apture of such marauders.

Sympathizers with the rebellion who, while

January 1, 1864.)

Reporter Missouri Republican—On yesterday morning, the 3ist ult., at half-past 7 a. M., we left New Madvid, Missouri, bound for Memphis. At that hour it was raining; at half-past 8 it commenced snowing; at half-past 9 it commenced freezing, with high wind; by half-palf 10 the wind became so furious that we saw that it would be impossible to keep from being blown ashore. I stood on deck all of this time, and had the boat held quartering to the wind until we had blown within three hundred feet of the Missouri shore. At this point we cast anchor, and were fortunate enougz to have a st anchor, and were fortunate enough to have and anchor and a good chain. The storm held u ern up stream for twenty-four hours. After the chor was made fast and the excitement was ove ith me, I started for the cabin. At this momen with me, I started for the cabin. At this moment I found that my clothes, my face and hair were one solid cake of ice. But this was but of little importance to me, as the boat was yet surging like a mad buil or a wounded tiger, and the temperature growing colder and colder. The wind had now a fair and unmolested sweep of over ten miles at us. We had fears of being torn loose from our anchorage, so we kept up steam all the time. But now for a proof of the intensity of the cold. Our machinery is so arranged that the engines exhaust the steam into the chimneys, but before the steam would or could reach the chimneys it all turned into water (being condensed), then the water would run down over the breeching and over the firedoors. In doing this it froze, and cakes of ice as large as a man's body made in the breeching, and ice berges seven feet long by ten inches thick, closed up the fire doors. All this time it was growing colder and colder. During the night our starboa d engine froze up and bursted the head out. The stand pipes that stand under the boiler, and are at all times filled with hot water, froze up and bursted. On Friday morning, January 1st, the weather became calm, but the cold was intense. The fog would freeze and turn into frost, and blow and bursted. On Friday morning, January 1st, the weather became calm, but the cold was intense. The fog would freeze and turn into frost, and blow as thick as snow; and would stick to everything it touched. Now, for a beautiful sight; an iceberg in the Mississippi river. The chimneys stood like pyramids of fine snow. Each guy rod was from four to six inches in diameter, and not a break or dark spot to be seen on any part of the boat, as dark spot to be seen on any part of the boat, as this frost penetrated every part of the deck room and every air hole about the cabin It would have been impossible for a man to have lived one hour on the forecastle of the boat. BALTIMORE, Jan. 18. The American has a letter dated Point Lookout, January 10th, giving an account of an extensive raid in Westmoreland, Northumberland and Richmond counties, Va., by Brig. Gen. Mason. His command consisted of 300 infantry and 150 cavalry, and embarked from Point Lookout on the 12th. The command marched to Warsaw Court-house, Richmond county, captured and destroyed a large quan-tity of pork and bacon, collected there by the rebel government, captured a rebel Major and several other prisoners and destroyed grain, &c. I singeriely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

Constipation, Cotiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Drop-sy, Paralysis, Fits, etc. From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada. Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costineness. If others of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in tself, is the progenitor of others that are worse. I believe costineness to originate in the liver, but your Pills effect that organ and cure the disease. I find one or two large doses of your Pills, taken at the proper time, are excellent promotives of the natural secretion when wholly or partially suppressed, and also ware effectively or designs the transfer.
